winner 2015 cscp symposium book award moral emotions builds upon the philosophical theory of persons begun in phenomenology and mysticism and marks a new stage of phenomenology author anthony j steinbock finds personhood analyzing key emotions called moral emotions moral emotions offers a systematic account of the moral emotions described here as pride shame and guilt as emotions of self givenness repentance hope and despair as emotions of possibility and trusting loving and humility as emotions of otherness the author argues these reveal basic structures of interpersonal experience by exhibiting their own kind of cognition and evidence the moral emotions not only help to clarify the meaning of person they reveal novel concepts of freedom critique and normativity as such they are able to engage our contemporary social imaginaries at the impasse of modernity and postmodernity most people have wondered whether anything really matters some have temporarily thought that nothing really matters and some philosophers have defended the view that nothing really matters however if someone thinks that nothing matters if they are a nihilist about value then it seems that it is irrational for them to care about anything it seems that nihilism about value mandates total indifference this is the problem of nihilism allan hazlett addresses in the epistemology of desire and the problem of nihilism hazlett argues that the problem of nihilism arises because desire and thus caring is a species of evaluation that admits of irrationality this contradicts the influential humean view that desire does not admit of irrationality which has a ready solution to the problem of nihilism since desire does not admit of irrationality it cannot be irrational to care about something that you believe does not matter however following g e anscombe hazlett argues that desire has the same relationship to goodness as belief has to truth just as truth is the accuracy condition for belief goodness is the accuracy condition for desire this reveals desire as an appropriate target of epistemological inquiry in the same way that belief is an appropriate target of epistemological inquiry desires can amount to knowledge in the same way that beliefs can amount to knowledge and crucially for the problem of nihilism desire admits of irrationality in the same way that belief admits of irrationality nevertheless although it is obviously irrational to believe something that you believe is not true hazlett argues that it is not irrational to desire something you believe is not good despite the fact that goodness is the accuracy condition for desire this provides a solution to the problem of nihilism and shows that nihilism about value can coherently be combined with the anti humean view that desire is a species of evaluation
